This country, with its institutions, belongs to the people who inhabit it.—A. Lincoln.

Such was the condition of this country once. That time has, largely, gone by. American brigands have placed this country under the domination of Englishmen, possessed of all the preverbial English hate and avarice. Disguise it as we will, and sneer at it as we may, this nation is well nigh prostrate before European money-bags, ture will not have to work. They and if the cut-throat policy that the Republicans adopted thirty and more years ago, and which the Democrats made baste to follow, is continued for another thirty years, neither the country nor its institutions will belong to the people who inhabit it The malign influence of will not have to plant at all. The violent death of President Carnot should teach us to more considerate when dealing with our own president and with high officials generally. So many public men are denounced in ioflamatory articles that it gives a sort of impetus to assassins.—The Lawrence World.

Physician, heal thyself. Why have you so vindictively denounced Altgeld, Lewelling and other governors who have the courage of their convictions, and through whose veins flow as honest, patriotic blood as ever coursed through the veins of a Brady? At no other time in the last quarter of a century has there been such a sluice of grime, billingsgate and abuse heaped upon any class of men as have old-party editors heaped upon the men who have had the courage to hold up to the gaze of the world the crimes of the men who have ruled the nation for thirty years. We repeat: Physician, heal thyself.

Democrats are hard to please, They mouned and grouned over "the dangerous surplus" in the Republican treasury, and they fairly howl an treasury, and they fairly howl over the deficit, present and prospective, in the Democratic treasury. A couple of hundred millions of gold bonds will help them out.—Inter Ocean.

And did not Cleveland, five and one-half years ago, retire from office leaving a surplus of hundreds of millions of dollars for Harrison to squander? And did he not lows from New Rochelle, N. Y .: squander it, paying many millions in premium for bonds not yet due? And did not Harrison, when he retired from office, leave the United States treasury practically empty? We have no reverence for Cleveland, but, on the contrary, believe him as complete a shyster as was ever elected to any office; and now, chester. We had six good speakfor this Republican editor to attempt ers at the Yonkers mass meeting. to unload their warty's crimes, which have colminated in this widespread coming toward me the day after the disaster upon the Democratic party, French president was assassinated. we look upon him as the lowest Ile (superior) put his arm on my type of villainy and cowardice.

The plutes tell us to economize, omize. Then the things we not have to be made. Then the people employed in their manufacwill then economize their energy and must economize in food. Then the farmer can economize in his number of acres. His economy will be more stringent next time, and by the time the lesson has been practiced around to him again, he the nation may rest quietly and subscribe for a newspaper Then the publishers can economize in the Or one thing let us be more care-quality of his newspaper, and also in the quality and quantity of his subscribe, you can economize in the amount of your information, and thus be better prepared to vote as the plutes tell you to. By all means, economize, -- Industrial Sledge-Hammer, Meadville, Pa.

> Major Morrill has the pen with which President Harrison signed the disability pension bill. Perhaps Governor Lewelling could get the Kansas City Journal.

The pen effectually stabbed a ser-Republican party. According to Ingalls, the substituting of a disability pension for a service pension caused one man at least to kill himself. For if a service pension bill has been passed by congress and signed by a pen in the hands of a president, Hoke Smith could not at will dismiss veterans from the pension rolls.
